X MARKS THE P

A Fuzzy Riddle Comic

Inspired by @fuzzy_xrp

Long ago, on the XRP Ledger, a wallet named Fuzzybear woke up...
Riddle time, friend!
RIDDLE
On a New Year's Day I left a trade that never filled: one of ours for one of theirs. What order still sits on the ledger?
1

Years later, a map appeared. And every thirteen days... a new clue.
Four little words. Look close.
RIDDLE
Not "X marks the spot." Fuzzy changed the last word. What four words did he write on the map?
2

The map was never a lonely road.

RIDDLE

I hid a warrior inside the dark. Two words, with a capital letter tucked into night. What did Fuzzy tell the knight?

When time runs out...

Consurgimus. We rise.

RIDDLE

The genesis wallet woke at this minute, and the tribute token's supply is this many billion. What number does Fuzzy love?

We've reached the castle.
But the castle was never the end of the story.
RIDDLE
We've reached it — yet the bear smiles and says it was never the end. What place is this?

Green means go.

RIDDLE

Two words the Fuzzy family leaves you with. First a command, then a name. What do they say?

ANSWER KEY

1. The New Year's trade: 1 XRP for 1 BTC — the January 1, 2014 DEX order that still sits on the ledger.
2. Four words on the map: "X marks the P" — the post that opened Fuzzy's treasure-map series.
3. What he told the knight: "Good kNight." — a warrior is hiding inside the word night.
4. The number Fuzzy loves: 321 — the genesis wallet woke at 3:21:10 UTC on January 1, 2013, and $FUZZY's supply is 321 billion.
5. The place they reached: the castle — "We've reached the castle. But the castle was never the end of the story."
6. The family's two-word farewell: Stay Fuzzy.

This comic is new fiction inspired by posts from @fuzzy_xrp and public Fuzzybear / $FUZZY history. It is not official canon. The knight and merchant are story friends invented for this adventure.

Five secret numbers are hidden in the art. Look closely for 123321, 589, 119, 22, and 13.

STAY FUZZY.
